Disastrous Storms in East and South.

The July Floods Repeated in West Virginia and Penusylvania.

A Cyclone Sweens Through New Jersev and Delaware.

Heavy Rains Cause an Inundation at Boston Further Reports of Damage from Floods Along the Gulf of Mexico-Long List of Losses.

By Telegraph to The Times.
WHEELING (W. Va.), Aug. 21.—[By the Associated Press.j A storm, which in its disastrous effects rivals that of July 19th last, has been in progress here since 3 a.m., and shows no signs of abating. Wheeling Creek, in the narrow valley east of Wheeling, is a foot higher than ever before. Roads are being flooded from two to six feet deep, and bridges are destroyed. The valley is now one angry flood, and the damage can only be estimated by the wreckage that is strewn around. At 3:40 a piece of a Baltimore and Ohio wooden bridge from the Pittsburgh division struck the Baltimore and Ohio bridge at Main and Sixteenth streets, which was destroyed in July and rebuilt, and it was carried away July and rebuilt, and it was carried away with the rapidity of a cannon ball. The stone bridge, 14 feet long, over Wheeling Creek at Main street, fell with a crash. Over 1000 people had been on the bridge watching the rushing water, but were warned in time to escape. The water, gas, and patural-gas mains are broken, and and natural-gas mains are broken, and telegraph and telephone wires are down.

The losses will reach $250,000. IN PENNSYLVANIA. PITTSBURGH, Aug. 21.—It has been raining incessantly since 11 o'clock last night. Since 8 o'clock this morning over three and one-half inches of rain has fallen, being the greatest fall in 18 years. crop is estimated at 10 to 20 per cent; to rice 20 to 50 per cent. In the city many houses were unroofed, fences prostrated and trees uprooted. The heavy rain on the night of the 19th, for a time, flooded the entire city. The rear portion of the city is still itundated. The city was in darkness on Monday night.

The greatest damage done about the city was done on the river front. Fifty coal boats, worth $100,000, were sunk. Several small steamers were sunk or damaged. The Louisville and Nashville road was submerged twenty miles, with many washouts. The loss on the coal barges sunk is estimated at $300,000. Crops along the river for a distance of over twenty miles are entirely destroyed. A number of vessels overdue undoubtedly encountered the storm in the gulf.

A POW-WOW.

THE COUNTY DEMOCRATIC CON VENTION YESTERDAY.

A Vast Amount of Confusion and Disorder, but the Big End of the Ticket Nominated-Speech from S. M. White-The Nominees.

The Democratic County Convention met yesterday morning, in Turnverein Hall. The hour appointed was 10 o'clock, but it was 10:35 when Eugene Germain, the temporary chairman of the County Central Committee advanced to the table in front of the re porters' stand, and called the meeting to The delegates, nearly a full list of whom was printed in yesterday's TIMES, were all present and in their places. The contesting delegates of the Second Precinct, in the city, were also present, casting anxious glances at the seats occupied by McCaffrey's friends. The lobbies and galleries were filled with office-seekers and a sprinkling of Republican spectators, intent on seeing the fun. Every person on entering the room was presented by E. Germain with some Democratic literature, printed in the Government Printing Office at Washington. One was a pam-Office at Washington. One was a pamphlet of 16 pages, including Cleveland's tariff message, Mills's speech on "My bill," and other campaign rot.

OLD AND NEW FACES. Many of the old-time faces usually seen at Democratic gatherings were painfully abat Democratic gatherings were painfully absent, as J. de Barth Shorb and others, who object to any tarif-tinkering on raisins and oranges. Two new converts attracted some attention. One was Lewis Jacobs, a colored gentleman, who tried for several years to run the colored population of Los Angeles to suit himself, but was defeated at every point by his successful rival, John Jacob Astor Soares. Jacobs gives as his reason for going over to the Democracy that the Republican party is not solid on the public school question in Kansas. Charles A. Beit, the proprietor and publisher of the Porcupine, also appears in a Democratic convention for the first time, notwithstanding the fact that his paper, at the outset of the campaign, announced its devotion to Republican principles. No other "converts" were noticeable. Secretary William Waters read the call for the convention and the list of delegates, as published in Firs Times.

The contesting delegates of the Second city precinct handed to the Secretary the papers of their contest.

MATHEWS TALKS.

Mr. Matthews was declared elected, and came forward and said:

"Gentlemen of the Convention: I thank you very much for the favor which you have paid me in electing me as your chairman. It will be my aim to give every representative upon this floor a fair and honest recognition, that me may all assist in nutting me. twe upon this floor a fair and honest recognition, that me may all assist in putting up such a ticket as, in connection with the grand old party of Democracy and our gallant standard bearers, Cleveland and Thurman, shall insure success in the coming election. [Cheers, Gentlemen, we must now come to business. The next order will be the election of a temporary secretary."

Ben Edelman and A. Ramish were elected temporary secretaries. This business having been disposed of, a period of confusion ensued, and there was no little wrangling over the appointment of committees. Delegates in their anxiety to make themselves prominent in the convention, or to get on committees, were very noisy in their efforts to make themselves heard, and paid little attention to parliamentary law.

According to the usual custom, this would have made Mr. Ryan chairman of each committee. Other delegates, not relishing this idea of one-man power, sprang to their feet, and 20 reporters would not have been able to catch the motions, cross-motions, counter-motions and amendments that were rained thick and fast into the ears of the Chairman. A few of them were like this:

John C. Morgan of Santa Monica wanted the appointment of a committee on permanent organization and order of business.

A lively man in the middle aisle, who did not give the Chairman his name, wanted a sergeant-at-arms appointed.

J. I. Redick thanked the convention for the eight votes cast for him, and the convention adjourned till 2 p.m.

Afternoon Session The afternoon session was like the men-ageric part of a circus. The delegates had not profited much by their parliamentary rience of the forenoon, and although radictory rulings and votes were made, contradictory rulings and votes were made, yet business went right along.

The convention was so sooner called to order at 2:15 p.m., than Charles Bell of the Porcupine, chairman of the Platform Committee, jumped up, and asked for further time. Several orators were promptly on the floor with objections. One powed to give them more time. Another moved to give them half an hour, another an hour, another two hours.

nother two hours,
J. B. Holloway of the Platform Commitee asked for time. He said he wanted to make a platform that the Republicans could not pick to pieces.

A number of motions followed. Some one cried out in a tired voice: "Mr. Chairman, where are we?" The Chairman explained, and on motion of T. A. Saxon the committee were granted sufficient time.

THE COMMITTEE ON CREDENTIALS, then read the following report: "In the case of the El Monte contest we report in favor of seating T. A. Saxon, B. "The re H. Bodlock, J. C. Hannon, M. D. Mason made in t

"In the contest of the Second city precinct we report in favor of seating the delegation in the convention; that the vote of Abbot Kinney be voted by Cyrus Curtis," The report of the committee was received with yells when it decided the contest in the Second city precinct.

S. A. Waldron, of the committee, said there had been many irregularities in the Second city precinct. Minors and foreigners were voted. About thirty Italians had been marched to the poll, with red handkerchiefs about their necks, and voted. In half an hour they returned without their handkerchiefs and voted again! J. H. Ryan, chairman of the committee, said they had accepted the list of Secretary Waters of the County Central Committee.

A. Mr. Mackey felt that he would be an intruder if the committee did not recognize other delegates than those whose seats were contested.

Morgan of Santa Monica moved the report be referred back to the committee.

Tom McCaffrey (of the contested delegation) moved that the report be tabled.

Judge Hill (formerly of Colorado) called for the previous question.

The Chair: The question is, Shall the report of the committee be accepted?

On a vote the majority was apparently in the negative, but the air was filled with cries of "division."

McCaffrey moved for a roll-call.

Hill raised the point of order that there was a division.

D. M. Adams said that serious charges have been made against a candidate. We want to know how we are voting.

E. A. de Camp inquired how we are voting when we vote aye and nay.

"The Chair: It is on the question of adopting the report of the Credential Committee.

Mr. Mackey understood it differently.

CONFUSION WORSE CONFOUNDED.

Mr. Mackey jumped up and moved that the committee's report be amended to recognize the other delegates than those mentioned in its report, taking those names tioned in its report, taking those names published in a morning paper. [The TIMES was the only morning paper that published the list of names yesterd 15.] Cries of "Mr. Chairman" for a few minutes were many and noisy. J. Marion Brooks again got the floor and moved as an amendment to refer back the report for correction.

Saxon wanted to give the committee 15 minutes more time. The convention had already consumed 20 minutes without accomplishing anything. There were cries of "no" against Saxon's motion. Mackey's amendment then prevailed, and the committee's report was revised to accept all the delegates present.

Still the convention did not seem satisfied, and the noise and confusion was such.

Still the convention did not seem satisfied, and the noise and confusion was such, for a few minutes, that nothing could be understood at the reporters' stand. Cries of "Mr. Chairman" and "Call the roll" were in full blast when Mr. Blennerhassett advanced toward the platform, and tried to make a speech. Mr. Blennerhassett belonged to the delegation from the Second city precinct that had been ruled out. His presence was the cause of fresh cries and hisses, and yells of "Put him out!" Blennerhassett yelled out at the top of his lungs, "I am a delegate—" But his voice was drowned in the increased noise.

Amid the din the double-chested tones of Brewer of Vernon were heard to say: "If he is not a delegate—" but the convention were not in a humor to hear either for or against Bleanerhassett, who could be seen standing his ground, using his jaw vigrorously and shaking his fist at the convention.

In a few minutes the convention seemed orously and shaking his fist at the convention.

In a few minutes the convention seemed to lese its wind, and S. A. Waldron got in a few words edgewise, and said: "Both parties in the Second Precinct should have seats here till the case is decided. I move—" but the confusion and racket was again renewed, and Mr. Waldron sat down, as be could not make himself heard.

Tom McCaffrey made the point of order that the question had already been acted upon.

that the question had already been acted upon.

Amid more noise, Mr. Blennerhassett was heard to say: "You can'tch'cke us off—." Slience was finally obtained, and a vote was taken. The ayes and nays were about even, but the Chair decided in the affirmative. The result of this last vote seated all delegates in the convention except the contestants of the Second city precinct, led by John Harvey. This was a blow at the Buckley gang.

MORE TURMALL.

A scene of indescribable confusion here commenced and lasted several minutes, and nmenced and lasted several minutes, and at one time it looked as if there would be some personal encounters. Cries, cat-calls, yells, cheers, hisses and shouts, in fact every kind of noise imaginable was made. Delegates by the dozens were on the floor or on chairs at once, each trying to get the recognition of the Chair. The cause of all the uproar was a motion made by a delegate to bring the nomination of Sheriff up from No. S in the order of business to No. 3, and shove the other succeeding nominations each down a lower number on the 3, and shove the other succeeding nominations each down a lower number on the list.

J. M. Voss of the Committee on Order of Business got the floor, and defended the report. The Sheriff's nomination had been put down on the list so as to keep up interest in the convention to the last, he said.

Brewer of Vernon renewed the motion to move the Sheriff's nomination from No. 8 to No. 3. He wanted this done "to prevent any skullduggery."

James Shawhan, editor of the Pasadena Critic, said the Sheriff's nomination had been placed at No. 8 on the order of business as a compromise. His further remarks were drowned by the confusion which was renewed, one delegate wanting to have the Sheriff's nomination moved up the list, while another did not. Brewer of Vernon got on the floor, only to meet De Camp's point of order that he had spoken twice, but a chorus of volces yelled for Rrewer.

J. I. Redick shouted excitedly in reply to Brewer: "We don't have any skullduggery in the Democratic party." [Great cheering.]

Brewer was up in a second with: "I'd like to ask why—." but the burst of noise that interrupted him was like the roar of a whole menagerie. Chairman Matthews rapped his cane vigorously, but all to no purpose, Cries of "Order" and "Sit down" caused Mr. Brewer to be seated at last, and Mr. Brooks took the floor, which only caused a fresh outburst of noise. The confusion became general, delegates leaving their seats, and in one corner a row was anticipated between two delegates, but they were separated.

MR. BROOKS.

Brooks kept gesticulating until the convention became quiet enough to hear him

"The report of your committee was no or combination of men. That report was made only in the interest of the party which we adore—the party that has ruled this country for four years, and the party that shall continue to rule it. [Cheers.] The Democratic party stands above all. She is bigger than the Sheriff's office. She is bigger than the Treasurer's office or any other office on earth. [Cheers.] I tell you gentlemen, this report was made in the interest of the entire party, and the committee believed that there were other offices before the convention of as much importance and entitled to as much consideration as the Sheriff's office. We are not fools, although we are accused of being so."

Mr. de Camp here called Mr. Brook to order, and the chairman put the question to the convention: "Shall the Sheriff's nomination be moved from No. 8 in the order of business up to No. 3?" The motion was voted down. The income was voted down. This did not seem to satify all the convention, as the noise was renewed. Ex-County Recorder Charles E. Miles jumped up, with extended hands, and said something which could not be heard amid the confusion. Several different motions were

A motion prevailed to accept the report and discharge the committee. It seemed to act like oil on troubled waters, for the convention suddenly became very quiet.

Another motion was passed that the convention proceed with its business, and the delegates all paid their dollar apiece assess-

D. M. Adams moved that the chairman appoint two vice-presidents, and Richard Dunnigan and J. I. Redick were according to the control of the control o Dunnigan and J. I. Redick were accordingly appointed.

A singular little incident then occurred, showing how very contradictory conventions can sometimes act. George E. Taylor of Orange announced that, although not a delegate, he held the proxy of George C. Hagar of Orange. The convention promptly rejected Mr. Taylor, and he retired from the floor. The convention immediately passed the following resolution, introduced by V. Metcalf:

"Resolved, that any delegate leaving the convention may leave his proxy with whom soever he may choose, provided the party so chosen shall be from the same ward or precinct; further, if no proxy is left, the delegation of which he is a member shall cast his vote."

Nominations for two Superior Judges, long term, being in order, M. C. Fordham nominated A. W. Hutton, H. K. S. O'Melveny and W. P. Gardiner, the incumbents, evidently misunderstanding the order of business.

J. I. Redick nominated W. P. Gardiner.

answer to loud calls went forward to the platform and said:
"Mr. Chairman: I desire to raise the point of order that I am not in the regular order of business. Laughter and cries of "Speech."

"Now, I am not upon the order of business, as I before remarked, and, judging from the speed with which you voted down the motion to adjourn, I conclude you intend to transact your business now, or else fix some other time for that purpose. I do not think this is any time for a speech, and I do not believe that you, coming as you do from various parts of the county to transact the important business of this convention, desire to listen to any speech.

[Cheers.] And, gentlemen of the Democratic party of Los Angeles and fellow-citizens, I believe there has never been a time in the history of our politics, at least within my recollection, when so clearly, and so manifestly, and so positively, did the Democracy represent the people of this country as they do today. [Cheers.] And I wish you to remember, fellow-citizens, this fact, that in the campaign which is upon us now, you will be confronted by faisehood, and faisehood alone. In every Republican journal in this country, and this State, and and that the confronted by faisehood, and faisehood alone. And still these gentlemen tell you that we are advocating free trade, and that they are not the friends or advocates of free trade! We say, as your platform says, that we prefer free clothing to free whisky. [Cheers.] We say to the farmer of Los Angeles county, wouldn't you rather vote for a party that would take 5 cents out of every sack you buy for your grant than to vote for one that would cripple your products? We say to those interested in the fruit industry of the county, wouldn't you rather vote for the party that would remove the tariff on tin, enabling you to engage in a proitable business than to vote for a party whose policy would embarrass your financial resources? There is not a single instance in the whole bill which the Republican party. [Cheers.] "And these men who are the men who are the men who took the steady rap, rap of the Chairman's cane several minutes to restore quiet.

A proposition of Brooks, that nominating speeches be extended to ten minutes, was greeted with a tremendous blast of noes all over the house. About ten minutes was consumed in all kinds of motions to limit speeches to one, three, five and ten minutes, as though some Cicero or Demosthenes were to start the candidates to victory. All the side motions were voted down, and the original three-minute rule remained in force.

As soon as this decision was made, E. A. de Camp jumped up on a chair, and said it was with pleasure he placed in nomination for Sheriff the name of Tom E. Rowan. Great cheering followed this.

A gentleman who did not announce his name to the Chair nominated B. E. Taney for Sheriff.

The funniest speech was made by a gentleman named Ryan, whose exceedingly large amount of bombast helped to kill the candidate he nominated, T. J. Cuddy. The convention very soon tired of Mr. Ryan, and he turned imploringly to the Chairman and said: "Protect me," and then to the audlence, striking an attitude: "Hear me for my cause."

audience, striking an attitude: "Hear me for my cause."

J. I. Redick in a short, neat speech nominated A. W. Barrett. He referred to his candidate as a staunch Democrat, and as a member of the Grand Army of the Republic he would have many friends among that organization. [Cries and unreconstructed hisses were heard at the mention of the name of that order.]

D. V. Waldron was nominated for Sheriff. Several speeches were made seconding the nominations of the several candidates.

Mr. Taney then came forward, and said that if he was nominated he would get there.

speech. He exhibited a little more temper than he is usually supposed to have. He said he had made many canvasses over the county years befere, and would again if nominated. His competitors had elroulated the story that if he resigned his office as Supervisor, on account of his nomination for Sheriff, Governor Waterman would appoint a Republican to fill the vacancy on the Board of Supervisors. But, after consultation with Mr. White, he had learned that the board can order an election to fill the vacancy. It is time that Tonimy Rowan is doing something for his family. It has got to be so that people going to his real-estate office are a ompelled to find him at the Board of Supervisors, and, but for Mr. Heilman, he would have resigned long ago, but consented to remain till next January.

The name of Capt Barrett was then withdrawn.

A motion to adjourn was made, and a roll call on ballot was ordered. Secretary Edelman complained that he could not see the delegates on account of the darkness, and he sitated about calling the roll, but finally proceeded. The vote stood: For adjourning, 104; against, 180. The vote was declared lost.

THE SECOND BALLOT for Sheriff was then ordered. During the roll call the gaslight was turned on amid mous.

The convention then rose to its feet and gave Mr. Rowan three hearty cheers.

The convention then adjourned till 9 o'clock this morning.

An Unfortunate and Fatal Acci-

PASADENA, Aug. 21.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] An unfortunate and fatal accident occurred in this city this afternoon about 1:30 o'clock. E. N. Staysa, a man of about 27 years of age and quite well known in this city, and whose home was formerly on the corner of Vernon street and Elevado drive, but who has was formerly on the corner of Vernon street and Elevado drive, but who has lately been on a ranch belonging to his father near Norwalk, had hauled some household articles for a party living in the first-named vicinity, and in unloading the goods, took hold of the muzzle of a Wuchester rifle and pulled the gun toward him, with the usual result. The shot took effect in the breast, a little to the right of the breast bone; and, throwing his hands in the air, with a loud cry he fell to the ground, exclaiming, "I am shot!" and almost instantly expired.

Dr. Hodge was called as soon as possible, but too late, for the young man was beyond even the those of death.

The weapon was an old-style 33-caliber Winchester rifle, and was not, as are the latest makes, provided with rebounding locks, and in this gun the hammer rested directly on the cartridge, and consequently is very easily discharged.

The young man's brother was with him at the time of the accident, and his agonizing cries were most pittable.

Mr. Staysa was a carpenter by trade, and a member of the A.O.U.W. lodge of this city. E. P. Large of Monrovia was telegraphed to come down and make preparations for the removal of the remains, Mr. Large being a friend of the family.

The gentleman said to a Times reporter yesterday afternoon that the prospect for a full display of the products of the southern part of the State were very favorable. He could not give anything like a list of the exhibits, as but few of them had as yet been prepared. The counties to be represented are Los Angeles, San Bernardino and San Diego, and most of the towns in these counties will contribute. San Bernardino will have a specially fine exhibit of the mineral resources of that county, as will San Diego. Los Angeles will send a fine display of fruits, etc. The fair will open on the 4th of September, and closes on the 19th of October. On the 11th of September there will be a grand parade, and on the 12th the veterans will go into camp. Mr. Van Alstyne is confident that the exhibit will be the means of sending thousands of people to Southern California.

THE SHOOTING.

YOUNG WEYERMAN MAKES HIS DYING STATEMENT.

No New Light Shed on the Mystery of the Affair-The Murdered Man Does Not Know Who Shot Him-Theories of the Officers.

The mystery surrounding the probably fatal shooting of young Weyerman, at the corner of Fort and Temple streets, at 1:15 y'clock yesterday morning, is as yet unsolved. The police and detective force were at work steadily on the case all day, but virtually nothing was discovered tend-ing to throw additional light on the perpe-trator of the crime. One or two arrests were made, but they did not amount to anything, and, after being examined at length, were discharged. The wounded man suffered considerable pain during the morning, but preserved his reticence, and said but little on the subject of the shooting. About 1 o'clock Dr. Kurtz was called in, and cut out the builet. It was found that it had entered the right side of the abdomen, a little in front, and passed through nearly to the left side, where it was found. After the operation was performed, an opiate was administered to relieve the pain, after which Weyerman seemed to rest easily. The builet was evidently from a 32-caliber revolver. Dr. Choate, the police surgeon, was of the opinion that the wound was fatal, and about 2 o'clock the Doctor, with Detective Metzler and Officer Van Luven, went out fo Weyerman's house, where he made the following statement:

WEYERMANS STATEMENT. little on the subject of the shooting. About

Detective Metzler and Officer Van Luven, went out to Weyerman's house, where he made the following statement:

WEYERMANS STATEMENT.
CITY AND COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES,
STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
August 21, 1888.

I, Bernhard Weyerman, believing that I will die from the gunshot wound received this day, make this, my dying statement, of the facts connected with the shooting:
My name is Bernhard Daniel Weyerman.
I will be 21 years old the 17th day of November. I was born in Louisville, Ky. I am a shoemaker by occupation. I left my home a few minutes before 8 o'clock on the evening of August 20th, with my figher and brother Arthur, to go the Gamorinus Hall, as an invited guest, to go to the birthday party given to Mr. B. Levy, arriving there about 8:15 o'clock. I did not stop on the way. I remained there singing, drinking and enjoying myself generally until about 10 clock, leaving in company with my brother and father. I had no altercation, words or trouble with any one. Gambrinus Hallis at 113 East First street. We came up First street, turned into Main, went as far as Temple street, and turned up that street. My father, brother and myself were together until we got at the corner of Spring street. I being in a hurry to get home, walked ahead, leaving my father and bother some distance behind, until I got as far as Fort street, when I sat down on the curb at the southwest corner of Temple and Fort streets. I looked down the street, and Isat down to wat for them. I saw no one around or near me except my father and brother came up to me where I was sitting I saw a flash. I felt immediately that I was wounded, and I felt forward in the street. The sensation was a kind of numb and burning feeling. I commenced to hello, My brother and father picked me up, and tried to stand me on my feet. A crowd of about six or eight people had gathered in the meantime, Some one said, "Get a hack." I think either my brother Arthur or some stranger then went for a conveyance, and after about five minutes they returned, with a carriage, which they

NO NEW FACTS.
From the above it will be seen that Weyerman sticks to his story about not know-ing who did the shooting—in fact, he knows ing who did the shooting—in fact, he knows now less than when the shooting was done. The officers, however, have their own theory about the affair, and, from the general tenor of the confession, think there is an attempt to keep something back and shield some one. This opinion is strengthened by the reticence of the family, who do not seem to wish to say anything about the afair, and apparently do not care whether the officers arrest any one or not. This is strange, to say the least of it, when it is considered that the man is probably fatally wounded. It is more than probable, however, that there will be some startling developments within the next 24 hours, and, although Weyerman says there is no woman at the bottom of it, one may yet come to the surface before the matter is given up.

WHO THE PARTIES ARE.

WHO THE PARTIES ARE. Bernhard Weyerman, the wonnded man, worked for G. L. Stamm, bottling Mil-waukee beer at 25 Elmira street. He was waukee beer at 25 Elmira street. He was well liked by his fellow workmen. His brother, Otto, works in the kitchen of the Olympic saloon on First street. D. Weverman, the father, keeps a small shoe shop at their one-story house, 938½ Temple street. His wife lives there also, as does the wife of Otto, the brother. They moved here about a moath ago from San Antonio, Tex. They moved last Monday into the house they now occupy. Otto is aged 23 years and Bernhard 21.

RAILROADINGS.

A Question of Accommodating San Diego Travel. The San Francisco Chronicle is evidently

The San Francisco Chronicle is evidently after the Santa Fé people, if one can judge from the following editorial which appeared in last Sunday's issue of that paper:

"The coast division of the California Central Railway, from Los Angeles to San Diego, has recently been so changed that the south-bound train leaves Los Angeles 15 minutes before the arrival of train No. 17 from this city, and in consequence passenvers and mails from San Francisco for San Diego are forced to stop in Los Angeles 14 hours. Los Angeles is a delightful city, with a fine climate, pienty of eligible property for sale, and all that; but when the way of the same to san Diego he does not want to have to stop 14 hours in Los Angeles on his way. He prefers to visit Los Angeles on his own motion and not on compulsion.

"The ways of railroad companies are like

Angeles on his own motion and not of compulsion.

"The ways of railroad companies are like the ways of Providence—past finding out. The Southern Pacific people think the change is made for the purpose of compelling them to change the time of running their trains into Los Angeles, but the change is so slight, only 15 minutes, that it looks at this distance like a case of pure cussedness." Certainly, the California Central cannot be so pushed for time that a could not spare a single quarter of an aour to save its patrons a delay of 14 hours.

There is another road from Los Angeles of San Diego, the California Southern, which is longer than the Central; but if the latter persists in maintaining its absurd arrangement, or, rather, disarrangement, its former patrons will, if they are sensible, submit to the inconvenience of the longer route, if for no other purpose than to teach the California Central that it does not own the earth, and that the traveling public have some rights which even a railroad company is bound to respect."

A Times reporter met Col. Williamson
Dunn of the Santa Fé system yesterday afternoon and asked him for an explanation.

"Well," said Col. Dunn, "there is no explanation necessary. It is true that our time-table was not made to suit the Southern Pacific Company, but it will probably be "They speak of the road from Colton, or the California Southern, and say that it will be run in opposition in case we do not change our time-table, but they forget that both roads belong to the Santa Fé Company. No, sir, we are willing to do the best we can for the public, and we will change our time-table I am satisfied to suit the traveling public as soon as they make their wants known. But you had better see Mr. McCool, as he will be able to give you more inform tion on the subject."

The Santa Fé people are preparing to send a number of visitors to the Columbus encampment. They will have tickets on sale ou the ist and 2d of next month, and are prepared to give their patrons the very best accommodation.

When the mob was first formed all the editors agreed with the mob not to write anything up that might happen during the time they were at their work. Citizens have called on the work. Citizens have called on the Sheriff of this county for protection, and he has refused them. Now there are two constables here, with six to eight deputies, the Sheriff with his five or six, the City Marshal with two policemen, and all of them with the power to call on the citizens for help if they think it is required.

The members of the State militia were in the mob, including one of the captains. They took the guns from the armory and marched the streets with them. They took business men and taxpayers from their places of business, dragged them to the Armory Hall, and ordered them out of town under penalty of hanging.

son, but the parties are always a success without any effort.

D. E. Miles, secretary of the Southern California Insurance Company of Los Angeles', is summering at the Long Beach Hotel with his wife and little daughter Ethel.

The Misses Nina and Ada Moore and Mrs. A. V. Cross will be at the hotel the latter part of the week, the guests of their uncle, E. A. Sturgis, ex-Mayor of Waco, Tex., who is spending the summer at the beach.

Mr. Hardy, who has been spending his vacation at the Long Beach Hotel, returned to Los Angeles on Monday.

There are many new arrivals at the hotel this week, and the young folks are making arrangements for a delightful party Saturday eve.

I. W. Hellman and family are still stopping at the hotel.

THE candidates nominated by the county Democracy yesterday are, in the majority of cases, fair average citizens, but the ticket, as a whole, will not compare with that put up by the Republicans, and it will, we believe, defeated by a very sufficient majority next November. This is a Republican year, not only in the country but also in the States, counties and cities. It is only where a very strong Democrat is opposed to a very weak Republican that he will stand ow in this fight.

The County Democratic Platform

The platform formulated by the county Democrats yesterday is chiefly composed of platitudes and falsehoods. Where they didn't dare to use falsehoods, they used platitudes, and where they didn't use platitudes they used falsehoods, cementing the whole together with what the able and classical chief engineer of the barque Herald would call "bathershin," in ample doses.

Devotion is of course reaffirmed, etc. the administration of President Cleveland indorsed, especially the doctrine laid down in his message that revision of the tariff is necessary to prevent the accumulations of large sums in the treasury, now needed for circulation among the people. There will be precious little money in circulation among the people-that is the people of the United States-should the Mills Bill become a law.

The Republican charge that the Democracy is in favor of free trade is denounced as "insincere and unfounded." Of course! Who said anything-lately-about nasty free trade? That was only done by Democratic journals, before the general drift of public opinion was understood, and now only by indiscreet English journals. "Steal the earnings of American laborers! Never! 'Convey,' the wise it call." The usual misleading statement about the proposed Democratic measure reducing the present tariff schedule less than seven per cent. is repeated. This is twaddle. Suppose it only reduced the tariff, on an average, or per cent. It might do this and yet work incalculable injury, by reducing half a dozen important articles from twenty to one hundred per cent. and leaving the others untouched. It would be cold comfort for those thrown out of employment by such reduction to learn that the average reduction amounted to very little. "We believe in reducing the cost of the nec-essaries of life." And in depriving a large majority of wage-earners of the power to buy those necessaries at any price. "We do not agree with the Republican party that expensive clothing and cheap whisky will result in the Nation's happiness." The Republican party does not believe any such thing, and you know it; but the Republican party believes that, if it come to a choice between cheap whisky and starvation wages, cheap whisky is by far the preferable evil. A large majority of the Democratic party would hail free whisky with delight and consume it by the gallon, while a large minority of the Republican party is strongly op-posed to the use of spirituous liquors, cheap or dear, in any quantity. "All the monopolies and the trus combinations of the United States against whom labor has been forced to combine, are opposed to the policy of our party." How is it, then, that they have so many representatives on your National Committee? "The Democracy has espoused the cause of labor and is prepared to defend its interests against those who are now seeking to enslave it." This is richness of the very richest description - almost too rich for even the Bourbon stomach, one would suppose. Comment is superflu-ous and criticism is unnecessary, in face of such an astounding assertion as this. The resolution on the Chinese question is more twaddle. Twenty years ago-twelve years ago-the subject of Chinese immigration and its probable effects on the country was very little understood. East of the Rocky Mountains and ninety-five per cent, of the inhabitants of the Eastern States-Democrats as well as Republicanssaw no danger in the continued arrival of the little brown men. Now things have changed. It is no longer a party question. The Chinese have estab lished themselves in the eastern cities, and their unpleasant characteristic are very generally understood. The whole Nation is practically a unit in favor of their exclusion, including those who formerly championed their cause. It is only fools who never change their opinions.

It is true, we believe, that Levi P. Morton owns some stock in a Britishor rather Canadian-railway company What of it? Is that a crime? Would not every one of the framers of this precious platform be delighted to ob tain a little of that same-or any other —foreign stock, or bonds, or property? What's the difference between holding stock in a Canadian railway or owning land in Baja California? Bah! Such puerility makes one weary this hot veather. Then comes a great big resolution aimed at the County Assessor, and evidently inspired by the Ankoond of the Herald, as be has been harping upon that bugbear for several weeks past. We shall not weary our readers by repeating our proofs of the groundessness of these charges. Suffice it to say that Assessor Mason has done his duty, and that, if he has erred at all, it is in assessing property at far less than its market value, at the time such as sessment was made. The only possi-ble gound for attacking Assessor Mason on this score is the fact that the practice of assessing property at a lower value is said to prevail in Central and Northern California, thus placing Los Angeles county at a disadvantage. Yet an Assessor must perform his sworn duty. The resolutions about the lien law, "trusts" and the eight-hour system are simply sops, thrown out to waver ing voters, and, while harmless, are also useless, as far as any practical application of them goes. Finally the numerous and powerful whisky division of the Democracy is tayored with a short reference to the liquor question, which the Democrats evidently dared not leave out, and yet feared to put in. They took it up gingerly, and dropped it again at once. like a hot potato. Here are the eight words of the resolution:

"We are unalterably opposed to all sump Everybody is opposed to national sumptuary laws, except those friends of the Democracy, the Prohibitionists. The platform concludes with a dig in the ribs for Gov. Waterman-and that is the end of it. So much fallacy and imbecility has seldom before been crowded into so small a space. The Democrats are evidently at their wits ends, and like a man who is awak ened from his slumbers to find the house afire, they take the most childish and ridiculous steps to avert the impending conflagration.

Last Night's Republican Rally.

At the Republican rally last night Hon. William Williams made a remarkable speech, in which he emphasized his wonderful power of turning the calcium light of concentrated thought upon any subject he deals with; of making abstruse truths apparent to the dullest comprehension and of holding his audience captive un til his last word has been uttered. It is simply repeating a fact to say that Mr. Williams is one of the great orators of the country. As a speaker on the tariff question, we doubt if he has any superior in the United States Those who were privileged to listen to Mr. Williams last night will not soon forget the oratorial treat which he furnished them. No report short of a verbatim one would do justice to this strong speaker's effective argument. The meeting was altogether a success.

Laid to Rest.

The funeral of Mrs. Emma L Mosher, wife of L. E. Mosher, took place from the family residence, on Buena Vista street, at o'clock yes-terday. There was a large attendance at the house of near friends of the family. Rev. A. J. Wells officiated, delivering appropriate, appreciative and touching remarks over the remains. It was, indeed, a house of mourning, the stricken parents, husband and motherless children being literally convulsed with grief. The scene was truly touching. Solemn services at the house concluded, the remains were followed to Rosedale Cemetery by a long line of carriages. The last rites of sepulture were performed at that beautiful spot, the dead left alone, and the sorrowing family returned to their desolate home.

Any newspaper can make mistakes sometimes. That is not at all difficult, but to be wrong all the time, and upon every occasion, requires a certain amount of negative genius, so to speak, which is rare and therefore noteworthy when found. As an example of this sort of lusus papyro, we refer to the Trombone, and, as a special instance, to the following extract from yesterday's issue of that prophetic sheet:

J. Marion Brooks will, in all probability. J. Marion Broofs will, in all probability, be made temporary chairman of the convention, and R. Dunnegan will be the chairm an of the convention, if that honor is conferred upon a city man, but it is more than probable that a delegate from the country will be selected, and, if so, Victor Montgomery of Santa Ana will be called upon to preside. The present incumbents, Judges Hutton, Gardiner and O'Molvery, will in all probability be nominated for several contents. will in all probability be nominated for su-perior Judges. The two former are sure of getting the nomination. There will be, no doubt, strong opposition against Judge CVMs.

THE Trombone has at last a real live contribution to its "letter bag," not written in the office. It is from a professional burglar, who characterizes the Trombone as "the most reliable paper in this city." This is praise indeed. To its other self-laudatory advertisements, the Spring-street organ can now add that it is "the only journal in Southern California devoted to the interests of professional burglars.

More Instances of Violations of the Contract L bor Act Brought to the Attention of the Investigating Committee-Great Trotting Meeting at Chicago.

Telegraph to The Times.
CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—|By the Associated Press.] Another gigantic conspiracy has been brought to light here today. It is an opium-smuggling scheme, the extent of which at the present writing cannot be ap-proximated, though, if the statements made by Government agents are to be believed. my persons in all parts of the country are involved, and many arrests may be made tonight or tomorrow. Today treasury agents arrested a man who registered at the Palmer House as E. W. Brown of New York. In his room in a house on Wabash avenue, whither he had been traced from the hotel, was found a canvas-bound trunk and 120 pounds of opium.

For some time the officials had been looking for a quantity of opium which was thought to have arrived in this city from New York, instead of the Pacific Coast, presumably to dodge the heavy duties imposed upon the drug. For a month a speposed upon the drug. For a monta spe-cial agent has been engaged in an active search for the stuff, and about 10 days ago a small quantity of the drug was seized at Ft. Wayne, ind. The news of the seizure created quite a stir in the Treasury Depart-ment at Washington, and the wires were kept busy with orders and instructions to the treasury agents here, and at last Agent kept ousy with orders and instructions to the treasury agents here, and at last Agent Tichenor has been sent from Washington here, and has full charge of the case.

It is stated tonight that the prisoner was not from New York, but from San Francisco, and that he had been known under the aliases of C. S. Martin and C. H. Gardiner.

the aliases of U. S. Martin and U. H. Gadiner.

For many years the prisoner was in the Government service, and was considered one of the shrewdest operators. Less than a year ago he left the service, and last February was arrested in Ogdensburg, N. Y. on a charge of smuggling opium. He was afterward released, for easons which were never explained. From Ogdensburg Gardiner was traced to San Francisco, and thence, about two months ago, back East. In Chicago he h d a woman as a companion, but the detectives refused to say whether she is under arrest or not.

Harrison Arrives at Toledo and R-ceives Rousing Reception—The Antique Bandana Embarks on a Steame and Journeys Toward Port Huron,

By Telegraph to The Times.
ATLANTA (Ga.), Aug. 21.—[By the Associated Press.] A heavy rain storm de-terred many people from going to the Georgia Chaufauqua today to hear Hon.
William McKinley speak on the subject of protection. Mr. McKinley was introduced by Judge Van Epps.
After acknowledging his thanks to the Piedmont Society for the courtesy and cordiality of the invitation, Mr. McKinley at once entered into a discussion of the tariff question. He began by quoting from a speech delivered by Hon. J. Randot Tucker of Virginia, in the House of Rep. sentatives, May 18, 1878, as follows: "Therefore no higher duty than that which will bring the required revenue." Mr. Mc-Kinley said, that this definition of a reve nue duty was a fair and frank one, and he accepted it. A revenue tariff, he went on say, is therefore, such a one as from the lowest duty. The lowest rate of duty will encourage importations, diminish home production and inevitably increase the revenues. It will of necessity check competition at home and send our merchants abroad to buy. It affords no protection, not even incidental, for the very instant you discover that such a duty favors home producers that instant you discover mportations and revenues are checked and that our own producers are able to control the home market or part of it, and then at once the advocate of revenue tariff reduces the duty and brings it down to the true revenue standard; for it must not be overlooked that, according to that free-trade maxim, "Where protection begins revenue ends,"and the question of revenue is always controling. A revenue tariff is inconsisten with protection. It is intended for wholly different purposes it loses its force and different purposes it loses its force and character as genuine revenue when it becomes to any extent protective. It has but one object, it can have but one effect, that of opening up our markets to the foreign producer, impeverishing the home producer and enriching his foreign rival.

The speaker then referred to England as being more nearly free trade than any other country, and he then made a statement concerning that country's dutiable articles. Passing on he said that there was another theory of taxation, and it was the one which he believed essential to American development and national prosperity, though it was based upon exactly an opposite principle 11 permits all articles of foreign production, whether of field, factory or mine, except luxuries only, which we cannot produce in the United States, to enter our ports free, and unburdened by custom-house exactions. The duty is to be imposed upon foreign competing products, that is, products which if brought tut this country. ports free, and unburdened by custom-house exactions. The duty is to be imposed upon foreign competing products, that is, products which, if brought into this country, would contend with the products of our own soil, our own labor and our own factories, in our own markets. Under this system, if the foreign producer would enter our market with a competing product, he must contribute something for the privilege which he is to enjoy, and this something, in the form of duties, goes into the treasury, furnishing revenue to the Government, and these duties operate to protect the joint product of labor and capital against a like foreign product.

A thorough analysis of the protective side of the question here followed, in which quotations from Democratic and Republican sources abounded. Triffi legislation was fellowed up from the birth of the American Republic to the present time. The industries were paraded with words of comment and criticism. He closed his speech in the following words:

"Men of Georgia: In this great industrial question there should be no North or no South to the United States. The people of every section have been entrusted with the interests of our country, our whole country. To others has been confided the care of other nations and other people. We will not interfere with us. My fellow-citizens, in this conflict, influenced by patriotism, national interest and national pride, let us be Americans."

Western Railway, and a hundred or more workmen, in their aprons and with soiled hands, ran out to greet the General, who stepped down in their midst and shook hands during the brief stop.

At 10:30 the train pulled into Peru, where recowd of nearly 1000 greeted the party. It was with a great deal of difficulty that the ieneral made his way to the waiting-room of the depot, where he received the people. The party are compelled to wait here learly an hour and a half, and after shaking annds all around Gen. Harrison sought the retirement of the railroad offices.

Toledo, Aug. 21.—Gen. Harrison and party reached Toledo at 4:30. They were received by the local committee on reception and escorted to carriages. Upon the platform were 200 veterans of the late war, who saluted and cheered as the General passed. The party moved through the principal streets to the residence of Mr. Cummings, whose guest the candidate and his wife will be.

A reception to Gen. Harrison was held at 8 o'clock this evening, and was attended by large numbers. Gov. Foster was the speaker. In the meantime the local marching clubs in uniform and burning torches, numbering 600 in all, escorted Gen. Harrison to the meeting. Chairman Brown of the local committee introduced Gen. Harrison who then made a lengthy speech, which was enthusiastically received.

THE PEOPLE'S STORE.

A Glance Through This Large Estab-lishment.
Ladies who promenade Spring street daily and flock into the People's Store to one or another of their "special sales" may not be aware that they are patronizing the largest store of its character west of the Rocky Mountains. J. J. O'Brien's palace, on Market street, San Francisco, is the only store of any kind that surpasses it in dimer sions, but that is devoted entirely to dry goods. The People's Store of Los An geles, on the contrary, is a "department store," having many different classes of goods under one management. In this branch of business it has no rival, and even store," having many different classes of goods under one management. In this branch of business it has no rival, and even in San Francisco no "department store" is equal to this one. It is the largest store of its class in the State.

The People's Store was opened six years axo on Main street, near the corner of Requena, in a room only 20x75 feet. Four years ago it mored into rooms in the Burmiller block, on Spring street. There it remained, swamped latterly with business, till last July, when, on the completion of the new Phillips block adjacent, the present light and commodious quarters were secured and joined with former ones, making the largest and pleasantest store of its kind in the State.

The total frontage of the combined stores on Spring street is 110 feet. The south division, or that in the Phillips block, is devoted to dry goods, fancy goods and millinery. It is 60 feet front by 120 feet deep, and has a floor space of 7200 square feet. Beneath is a finished basement of the same extent, in which is kept the reserve stock to supply the varying needs of the floor above. An elevator connects the two stories. The rear of this part of the store is occupled by a large millinery parlor, where in an elegant room, large show-cases display the latest Parisian styles. This parlor alone is 34x38 feet, and would pass, if by itself, as a pretty big store. During the season an efficient corps of 10 salesiadies waid on the fair customers, and back in the workshop eight others are corstantly employed. In front of the millinery department are cases and drawers full of parasols of all hues and shapes, and trimmed with costly laces. In the extreme southwest corner is the uphoistery and drapery department, where, in a carpeted parlor, are sold curtains and fixings, cornice-poles, screens and the essentials for furnishing a room as eleganity as the pocketbook will stand.

Along the south side of the store extend the dress goods, sitke shinshing coods' counter, 50 feet long, where 10 ladies dispense dress trimmings, fabric

Down the center of the store runs the center aisle, flanced by two counters of 50 feet each. Here are sold domestic goods, lawns, cottons, table cloths and towels. Twelve salesmen wait on this department, and very busy they are kept.

On the north side is the notion department, where every sort of nick-nack is supplied by eight sales women.
Opposite this is the lace and hosiery department, with 50 feet of counter and six sales wen.

Next comes the ladies' underwear department, where the finest muslin garments (unmentionable here) are kept in glass cases and dispensed by three saleswomen. There are also corsets and the whole round of fem-and dispensed by three saleswomen. There are also corsets and the whole round of feminine nether garments.

Opposite this is the department of outer wraps—jerseys, jackets and shawls—presided over by two saleswomen.

In the front of the store, back of the showwindows, are the remnant-counters, where remnants of all classes of googs are for sale, and great bargains some of them may be. Across the aisle, and facing the showwindows, on one side are kid gloves from Paris, and on the other side perfumery, toilet articles and nursery requisites of all kinds.

From this brangh of the store, particularly devoted to the ladies, an arched opening leads into the other division, which occupies the ground floor of the Buniller block. This floor is 50 feet front by 100 feet deep, and contains 5000 feet of floor space. Under this is also a furnished basement of the same dimensions, used for storage of the vast stock of men's goods, to be sold on the floor above.

To pay. Hence their magnificent success.

All Honor to them.

These brave and true men, believing in the doctrine of protection for American industry, not only refused to vote for the Mills Bill, but voted against it yesterday—all but Randall, who was too ill to be present.

It is a heroic deed to stand up against your party; and the men who do it at the command of their convictions are worthy of the highest praise.

I have always been a lover of my ountry, proud of its grandeur, proud of its history. What it has accomplished since the achievement of its national independence constitutes one of the noblest pages of human history.

All the centuries of Rome's power did not give liberty and equality to her citizens. The wheels of progress were not as swift as those of the chariot of the Roman autocrat. There was the splendor of palace, of temple and of amphitheater; there was the perfection of sculpture and of painting; there were vessels of gold and of silver; there was priceless jewelry — pearls, and rubies, and diamonds hanging from the necks of Roman maid and Among the American luxuries which palace, of temple and of amphitheater; there was the perfection of sculpture and of painting; there were vessels of gold and of silver; there was priceless jewelry — pearls, and rubies, and diamonds hanging from the necks of Roman maid and matron, everything to satisfy the most luxurious tastes and the most refined art, but luxury, and pride and sensuality were the prevailing characteristics of the Roman Nation. There was no intelligent recognition of universal manhood and of individual sovereignty. The real life of the people versal manned and of individual sovereignty. The real life of the people was dead; it has existed nowhere in completeness but in this young, new world of the West. "A government of the people, and for the people and by the people" constitutes the greatness of our heritage. I was talking with some friends one day last week who have just returned from should to their have just returned from abroad to their home in Santa Barbara after an absence of two years and a half in Europe. I did not care to learn through them so much of old world architecture, or the magnificence of cathedrals and palaces, as I did of the real every day life of the people, there-fore in a conversational way I arrived fore in a conversational way I arrived with them at Liverpool, was transferred to a "tender" when we left the ship, and in the quiet starlight sailed slowly past miles of docks, the lights upon which sent out their yellow gleams upon the water. On we went until the "Princesse Landing" was reached, from whence we took a conveyance to a hotel. There were no noisy cabmen waiting, confusing the traveler with their noisy shouts, but every driver sat like a statue upon his coach waiting to be sought for service. Arriving at the hotel—the porters were missing. They had gone to bed, and must not be disturbed. So the night-clerk sends his American guests upstairs, carrying their own luggage. ipstairs, carrying their own luggage. The number of their rooms is given, The number of their rooms is given, and he says, "You'll find a chambermaid in the hall upon your floor, and she will show you to your rooms."

Up the long, dark stairway we grope, reaching at last the great hall wrapped in deeper darkness. But no chambermaid is there, so we go on from door maid is there, so we go on from dor-to door lighting matches, which, fortu-nately one of our number chances to have in his pocket, till at length the right number is reached, and we open the door, enter the room, light a candle the door, enter the room, light a candle and sit down, to make our acquaintance with our surroundings in this big, silent hotel, with the strange at mosphere of the Old World about us. But it is not in this English city that we will linger. We will pass over to the continent and get a glimpse of what the civilization of the nineteenth century is doing for the the nineteenth century is doing for the the nineteenth century is doing to the candle level that though the Old World fronts in the history of the race more to be prized than the blessings and the elevating tendencies of American liberty.

The reprote and the reprote and the reprote and the age.

I have given our readers a few facts gleaned from the experience of friends abroad. They are such as to make us feel that though the Old World fronts enturing the civilization of the race more to be prized than the blessings and the elevating tendencies of American liberty.

a glimpse of what the civilization of the nineteenth century is doing for the toilers of morarchial Europe. We will enter Munich, that city which has reared her splendid galleries for art, and which is rich in her stores of wonderful paintings. What do we see along the lines of her railroads? Who are the toilers in the hot sun, leveling the track with iron bars in their hands, and shoveling the gravel to fill in the spaces which have been hollowed out along the line? Look closely, and you will see that it is woman faces and woman shoulders that are bending to the task. Menwhy do they not blush for their manhood?—men wearing uniforms oversee complete the ground floor of the Baunlier block. This floor is 50 foet front by 100 feet deep, and contains 5000 feet of floor space. Under this is also a furalished base pack. Under this is also a furalished base pack. The front center is filled with men's ready-made clothing in the latest style of the sold on the floor above. The front center is filled with men's underwar. The north alsie is the shoe department, 100 feet deep, where you feet of shelving contain on the one side hadden, and on the one side hadden, and on the one side hadden, and the prices of the first in the department for that purpose, which covers a space of 30x40 feet, and left attend in the department for that purpose, which covers a space of 30x40 feet, and left attend in the department for the mode.

when split, upon her back into the house. Yet these people of Munich, so lacking in real chivalry, are wonderfully polite in little things. They will not even enter the postoffice without taking their hats off, and they do not put them on again until they go out. But they do not hesitate, all the same, to smoke at a public table, never so much as saying by your leave.

Go with us to Venice, the beautiful city of the sea, with its many pillared palaces rising from the blue waters, and its thousands of windows shining like rainbows in the sunrise light. It is a city of beauty and of grandeur — a city of marble splendor, where want should not be nor hunger abide. But go with our friends to the lace manufactory, that gigantic structure where Labor is king and unceasing Toil holds the lash above his victims. Here, in this walled space, more than 3000 girls toil with busy and skilled fingers from early dawn to quiet eve. Says Mr. A.: "After they have learned the art of lace-making they are paid six cents a day, while some of those who give instruction receive the magnificent sum of sixteen cents per diem. I saw lace made by prisoners who were paid four and one-half cents per day. I also saw a piece of lace on which five years of labor were expended."

Would we like our wives and our daughters—those in our midst, who are dependent upon their own labor for their dailybread—to compete with these wretched toilers of the Old World? If we would, vote for free trade, and thus put about their necks the galling yokes of poverty and unrequited toil.

These women toilers are everywhere upon the continent. Said my friends: "We saw women harnessed beside dozs drawing heavy loads through the streets. We saw also a woman with a hay rack upon her shoulders into which a man was pitching the hay, and when it was filled she walked away with her load. A/nong the Swiss-Italians it is customary to see the peasant women with large baskets bound upon their oaks containing loads of various kinds, among which is manure, which they carried to

We never include the wine nor the lights, but for you we will make an exception, only we beg not to say that to anybody else.

Among the American luxuries which we should miss abroad would be the rocking-chair, which is purely an American invention. The dyspepsian the state of inducing pie is also conspicuous by its absence. The Old World ignores it, so there consequently is nothing there to invite one to dream of departed ancestors, or to lead one to imagine, in visions of the night, that he is mourising for his mother-in-law.

In Geneva the children go to school at 7 in the morning, and go home for the day at 11. They have the curious custom of doing the family washing but twice a year. At a boarding-house, where our friends stopped, they had 10 women engaged in this semi-an-

But Paris, that wonder of modern cities, and the capital of a young re-public, has one thing which attracted me, and which I should delight to see taken as a model in all of our large American cities. I refer to the Bon Marche, the largest dry goods retail es-tablishment in the world. The consideration which is shown for the social, moral and intellectual well-being of its employes is worthy of emulation. This establishment employes from 3000 to establishment employes from 3000 to 4000 men and women, and boards them within its limits. In the upper story of the magnificent build-ing is the kitchen, with its range 40 feet long and eight feet wide, on which may be seen pots and kettles, larger than barrels, filled with all kinds of vegetables, meats, etc. A machine turned by a crank (not a live one) cuts evenly and thinly the slices one) cuts evenly and thinly the slices of bread for the tables. Teachers of English and German, of vocal and instrumental music, are provided to instruct their employes evenings. There is a fine general parlor, in which is placed a grand piano. The firm have also a large picture gallery, firm have also a large picture gallery, library and reading room. open not only to their employés, but to their patr ms, if desiring a little rest from their shopping during the day. It is an honorable house, always ready to correct any mistake, and honest and fair in its dealings. It is an honor to the Republic and worthy of the intelligence of the age.

From the icy keeps
Where Nature sleeps
One-half the year away,
We came to the land
Of the golden sand
Where summer holds his sway;
Where the day-god's rays
In their glory blaze,
Where the weak have naught to fear;
Where the skies above,
With looks of love.
Smile on thro' the livelong year!

II.

In the land of light,
Where all is bright,
Where mountains weird and grand,
O'er the vales below
Their cool airs throw.
Like the touch of a vanished hand;
Where to live is life,
Where, far from strive,
The wearied frame may rest,
Where the surges roar
On the sounding shore.

On the soundin Where man is ever blest! III.

'Neath the eastern sky,
In days gone by.
We've chased the hours along,
Where sunny isles,
With a thousand wiles,
Gird Greece, that land of song;
But even there,
'Mid scenes so rare,
And mem'ries dear and old,
Such bods of light
Put not to flight
All dreams of winter cold!

Then ho! for the clime
Where the soft waves chime
A song of life and health,
Where nature, dress
In her brightest, best,
Is a source of joy and wealth;
Where the day-god's rays
In their glory blaze,
Where the weak have naught to fear,
Where the skies above,
With looks of love,

A Contingent of Ladies Arrive Upon the Tented Field-4 Pleasant Even ing's Entertainment-Clamming by the Sad, Sait, Sloshing Sea Shore Notes and Personals

ANAHEIM LANDING, Aug. -[Special Correspondence of THE TIMES.] A delegation of ladies arrived in camp yesterday at noon, representing the Bartlett and Stanton W. R.C. of Los Angeles. They came by train to Long Beach, and thence by carriage. They were cordially received at the W.R.C. headquarters by the ladies and officers of the camp. The following is a complete list of those in Frank Bartlett Corps, No. 7-Mrs. Mary M. Cook, President; Mrs. A. R. Limbocker, Mrs. M. T. Sittel, Mrs. J. E. Cannon, Mrs. S. A. Rickey, Mrs. H. V. Darward.

Stanton Corps, No. 16-Nellie H. Gleason, Mrs. James H. Miller, Mrs.

Gleason, Mrs. James H. Miller, Mrs. A. C. Shafer, Mrs. R. E. Brown, Miss Pearlie Gleason (honorary member). Appomattox Corps, Oakland—Mrs. Mary B. Templeton.

During the afternoon the guests visited the various portions of the camp, and enjoyed the beach and bathing. At evening the band serenaded them at the Commander's headquarters, and Mrs. Cook, President of Frank Bartlett Corps, gracefully thanked the young gentlemen for the courteous attention.

THE EVENING'S ENTERTAINMENT consisted of a musical programme, arconsisted of a musical programme, arranged by Prof. Packard. The pavilion was well filled, as usual. As we entered the crowded caravansary and looked around upon the sea of faces, a guest remarked to me; "Why, I'd no idea there were so many people here. Where in the world have they been all dispars I dispars are them on the I didn't see them on the grounds."

It is difficult to realize what a little world me have down here until they are all called together at some public entertainment. As each one enjoys his own sweet will and wanders about whither he may, the crowd is scattered largely. Some prefer to rest and lounge in their tents; others stroll about the camp, some go clamming or boating, but the great multitude seeks the beach or the breakers. A crowd may be found at almost any hour of the day down by the bay, enjoying the still-water bathing, which is very popular with bathers versed in the art of floating or swimming, otherspreferring ar with bathers versed in the art of floating or swimming, otherspreferring the breakers in the open sea beyond.

The evening exercises were opened by a quartet, "Sweet and Low," by Mrs. Knapp, Mrs McClure, Messrs. Heart and Packard, who have delighted their hearers on many occasions during the encampment. A duet, "Volkslied," was next very beautifully sung by Mages. Pamperl and Hiltcher. That tender old Scotch ballad, "We'd Better Bide a Wee," was the third number on the programme, and it lost none of its quaint, pathetic expression in the rendering by Miss Dora Scott, who has a rarely sweet, clear volce. A zither solo, "Haimbiche Lebe," was next very skillfully performed by Miss Mary Lena Pamperl; its charm could not be fully appreciated by the entire audience on account ated by the entire audience on account of the open condition of the pavilion, as the notes of this delicate instrument could not be well heard in the rear; in an enclosed building it would be far more effective more effective.

Mr. Landel fairly convulsed the audience with his exceptionally good rendering of the comic song, "The Christening," He personites the Irish parent to perfection, and the voluble lamentations of "Mike" are rolled off his tongue with the most surprising rapidity and accuracy in a perfect avalanche.

One of the fine teatures of the evening's entertainment was a trio, "Speed Away," by Misses Floy and Maud Roberts and Mr. Votaw, with violin accompaniment. All the participants are possessed of splendid voices, which they used with excellent effect.

The "Highland Fling" was next executed by Miss Pearl Gleason, who moved through the intricate measures of this charming dance with the bewitching ease and grace of a fairy. "Blake's Address to the American Flag" was next given by Comrade W. D. Barmen, and was rendered more impressive by the appearance of the national flag, borne by Comrade Fairbanks. At the conclusion of this Comrade Berry very facetiously remarked: "There are many battle-scarred heroes present. Our glorious Stars and present. Our glorious Stars and Stripes are floating o'er us, and now while the friends are admiring us we will take up a collection. Let none escape by the rear entrance." All these entertainments have been given free, and the call was not as generously responded to as it should have been. Let us all rally and help the Grand Army

The entertainment concluded with The entertainment constitution with that never-old song, "Marching Through Georgia," led by Comrade E. W. Hewitt, the audiencefjoining in the chorus. A dance followed, participated in by a crowd of happy young people.

HERE AND THERE. I went clamming vesterday—a sort of a press delegation, chaperoned by the famous and camp-celebrated clamdigger, H. S. Knapp. I being an inland novice, didn't know how clams grew before, and I doubt if all my readers do. You can't pick them up by the handful, I assure you, but every identical, precious shell-fish has to be dug out of the sand. Sometimes we would strike a bed of them, and our champion would rake out a whole colony at a time, and then wasn't there some excitement! "Oh, seel here's one with his tongue out," exclaimed one excited young lady as she dug up a shell whose inhabitant was taking a peep into the outer world. But his fishy majesty quickly retreated, closing the door of his house securely behind him, and all her efforts to open it were futile. We had a delightful time and returned to camp with pails and sacks filled with clams. "What did we have for dinner?" Clam soup, to be sure.

A "salt water cat" (as the old fisher. the famous and camp-celebrated clam-we have for dinner?" Clam soup, to be sure.

A "salt water cat" (as the old fishermen here call them) tried to invade the camp yesterday morning by swimming in shore. Commander Brooker gallantly attacked the foe single-handed; a struggle ensued; the enemy resisted, but the soldier advanced on a double-quick, and charging him inflicted a death-blow with the heel of his boot and triumphantly returned to his boot and triumphantly returned to camp, bearing the trophy. After the cuticle was removed from the body of the victim, cannibal-like—as it may seen, it was put through a broiling process, and graced the dinner-table as a most delicate seaside dish.

There are 17 members of Gordon Granger Post, Orange, encamped on the grounds with their families, 10 from Shiloh-Post, Compton, and five from Sedgwick Post, Santa Ana.

Miss Pearl Gieason, who delighted the audience last evening by her very skillful performances, is the "adopted daughter" of the Stanton W. R. C., who take great pride in their little honorary member. She surely ought to be patriotic, for she was born on Washington's birthday, centennial year.

orary member. She surely ouight to be patriotic, for she was born on Washington's birthday, centennial year.

Misses Floy and Maud Roberts of Anaheim are the champion swimmers here and can out-distance anyone, fishes included.

Prof. Packard of Orange, who is one of the comrades, leaves camp today, much to the regret of his many friends. He has been of invaluable assistance in preparing the programmes for entertainment, and withal is a thorough Christian gentleman and an honor to the G.A.R. He is called away to attend to his professional duties, having large musical classes in both Orange and Santa Ana.

appearance, some were brought into camp yesterday by the L.A.W.R.C., and hope is entertained that the entire company may yet be recovered.

One exceedingly patriotic youth parades the grounds, decked out in streamers of red, white, blue, pink and every other colored ribbon, attached to his coat in fantastic arrangement. He his coat in fantastic arrangement. He his coat in fantastic arrangement. He is wonderfully popular with the impressible young ladies of the camp.

The gallant band made the grand tour of the entire camp this morning, and serenaded all the ladies on the grounds. In behalf of the W.R.C. Mis. Sproul very gracefully said: "We would express our thanks to these gentlemen, not only for this kindly attention, but for the courtesy extended by them to the W.R.C. throughout the encampment, and we wish long life and campment, and we wish long life and happiness to each and every member of the Orange City Band. I would say further that the young ladies pronounce them the finest-looking young gentlemen on the grounds."

This last was a decided "hit," as the gallant lifting of caps, and radiant blushes on the part of the musicians testified. Three cheers for the Orange

Band!
The members of the W.R.C. were photographed this morning at head-quarters by Messrs. Cromwell and Westervelt, Los Angeles, after which they took a dip in the ocean.
The representatives of the W.R.C. of Los Angeles left this afternoon, after expressing themselves as highly delighted with camp life. They were hospitably entertained by the ladies of the Relief Corps who are encamped here.

Mrs. Mullen, Miss Nellie Garnham, Misses Maud and Flossie McCosh, Master Frankie and Willie Mullen of Pomona and Mr. and Mrs. Willet of Santa Ana are the guests of Comrade Berry and wife.

Comrade H. J. Adams of Orange, an old veteran in the war, arrived on the grounds today, and is entertained by Comrade Berry. He is the oldest member of Gordon Granger Post, having arrived at the ripe age of 81 years.

A Correction.

Long Beach, Aug. 21.—[To the Editor of The Times.] Will you be kind enough to correct a report from your correspondent at Anaheim Landing which appeared in THE TIMES of tongue with the most surprising rapidity and accuracy in a perfect avalanche of swift utterance. He was enthusiatically encored—a perfect uproar of applause—and responded with another song of similar style.

The next number was a recitation, "Papa's Letter," by Miss Pearl Gleason, of Los Angeles, who shows remarkable talent for one so young. The vocal solo, "When the Tide Comes In," was sung by Mrs. McClure, who is a favorite here, and is always sure to win the hearty appreciation of her hearers. One of the fine features of the evening's entertainment was a trio, "Speed of the fine families. Respectfully yours, and their families. Respectfully yours, and their families. A warning
The modes of death's approach are various, and statisties show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the throat and lungs than any other. It is probable that every one, without exception, receives vast numbers of tubercle germs into the system, and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly, and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat, and, it allowed to continue their ravages, they extend to the lungs, producing consumption, and to the head, causing catarrin. Now, all this is dangerous, and, if allowed to proceed, will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous, and may lese you your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your throat, lungs or nostrils, obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give you immediate relief. chee's German Syrup. It will give you nediate relief.

Ice No Longer a Luxury in Los Angeles, Thanks to an Enterprising Company.

The inhabitants of this progressive and rapidly-growing city have another proof of the faith eastern capital has in its future.

There has the these completed in this city. the faith eastern capital has in its future There has just been completed in this city the largest and best ice manufactory and cold-storage buildings in the world, by the Los Angeles Cold Storage and Hendrick Ice companies. The ice-making capacity is 50 tons daily. Our competitors claim that cheapening the price of ice will not increase its consumption. We believe different "We believe that ice is wanted for the preservation, in orivate house-, of meats, milk, butter, vegetables, and for ice water, ice tea, ice cream and other purposes, and that the exorbitant prices only have heretofore prevented its general use. We are confident of your patronage, as we are the directand only cause of the reduction in price.

In connection with our ice and cold-storage buildings we have erected large smoke-houses, and offer you, through the grocers and butchers, the only meats smoked here. They are much better than other meats, which all have to be brought across the desert. Ask for our "Lify" hams and bacon. No skippers in them, no mould, full weight. The new Coast line of the Santa Fe System passes through some of the most picturesque and charming scenery, including a 60-mile ride along the beautiful shores of the Pacific

This delightful route has a pleasing charm all through, ending at one of the most sublime spots on earth, where the ocean and the smooth waters of the harbor, only a short distance apart, can be seen coquetting with each other, from the spacious verandas of the grandest and most magnificent hotel on this continent.

Fine Sandwiches, specially prepared at the Hotel del Coronado, will be served on the train to all who desire them, at a nominal charge.

The train leaves First-street depot, SATURDAY, AUGUST 25, 1888, at 12:30 p.m., and will easily arrive in time for an early daylight dinner, returning Monday.

A GRAND BALL

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

The Police Commissioners will meet this afternoon, and a circus is expected. The meeting of the Texans, to have been held in Turner Hall last evening, was postponed till tomorrow evening, at the same place.

The Los Angeles and Vernon street car stables were burglarized early yesterday morning. The money-drawer was broken open and rifled of $20.

A man named John White was arrested yesterday for brutally whipping a child with a blacksnake whip. His case was set for the 23d at 10 o'clock.

A steamer loaded with ties for the Los Angeles County Railway is lying in the offing at Santa Monica. Charles P. Kearney, the defaulting secretary of the Iroquois Club (Democratic), was released on $500 bail furnished by Chief of Police Cuddy and Martin Marsh.

A base-ball game at Anaheim Landing yesterday between the Westminster and Fairview nines broke up in a row when the score stood 5 to 2 in favor of the West-

There will be a grand concert at the Areadia, at Santa Monica, Thursday evening, for the benefit of the St. Augustine Episcopal Church. After the concert there will be dancing.

Ben Gove, who has been spending several days at Coronado Beach, returned home last night. Mr. Gove also went across the line and put in a day at Tia Juana, which, he says, is the latest fad with tourists to San Diego. The Central Baptist Church will meet today at 3:39 p.m., at the Congregational Church, corner Third and South Hill streets, to examine and plan for improve-ments to be made upon the church, as they expect to commence worship there Sunday

L. H. Emerson was yesterday sentenced to 15 days' imprisonment in the County Jail, or to pay a fine of $15, by Judge Cheney, for contempt of court. The trouble grew out of a disobedience of the court about some years right in of the Court about some water right in Sawpit Canon, above Monrovia.

Foy Sin, a Chinaman, was brought in from San Fernando yesterday and locked up in the County Jail on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses. The heathen purchased a lot of goods, representing that he had means to pay for them, and when the bills fell due could not liquidate.

There are undelivered telegrams at the Western Union Telegraph office, No. 6 Court street, for the following people: Mrs. H. C. Grant, Mrs. Joseph Jaynes, Mrs. Joseph Huber, Hattle L. man, J. R. Dwyer and Fred Whittaker.

Trinidad Estrado and Señorita Encinas, who eloped from Long Beach the other day, were located on the east side of the river-yesterday, where they are living together. It seems that they "loved not wisely but too well" a long time ago, and had a child born to them. They now announce their intention of getting married.

A man by the name of Oman was found dead in bed at his room in the Arlington yesterday morning, he having died during the night of asthma. Oman had been in bad health for some time, and, being under a doctor's care, no inquest was held. He was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, and will be buried under their auspices.

The case of John and Margaret Scherer, for disturbing the peace, came up before Justice Austin yesterday, and they were discharged. They were accused of battering a fellow-Teuton, whom they caught chasing chickens in their yard. The services of Officer Appel were required as interpreter, the parties being unable to speak English.

The Executive Committee of the Pomological Society will begin at once to collect exhibits for the forthcoming fair. They propose to put some choice deciduous fruits, which would naturally be out of season at the time of the fair, in cold storage, in order to preserve them for display. All signs point to one of the best pomological exhibits ever made in Los Angeles.

Dan McDonald, about 18 years of age, was arrested early yesterday morning on a charge of vagrancy. McDonald has been in trouble before, and this time he will probably be committed to the keeping of the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society in San Francisco. His father is serving a life sen-tence in San Quentin for the murder of his mother in this city 10 or 12 years ago.

Manuel Valencia, an old Mexigan. aged 80 years, was found encamped out on the Mission road, beyond the covered bridge, yesterday afternoon. The old man had his blankets, and looked a if he had come to stay. He said that he had no friends, and was destitute and homeless. The patrol-wayon was sent out after him. Le will be sent to the County Hospital.

sent to the County Hospital.

The Sunday-school children of the Third Congregational Church, on New North Main street, gave a very interesting entertainment last evening to a full house. All the children who took part in the exercises were under 12 years of age. The recitations by Hattle Andrews and Gracle Hanley were specially meritorious, and were loudly applauded.

THE COURTS.

L. H. Emerson Goes to Jail for

JUDGE CIENEY'S COURT.

Some time ago the Santa Anita Water Company procured an injunction restraining L. H. Emerson from diverting their water at Monrovia from its old changel. Mr. Emerson, acting as agent for a rival company, continued to allow the water to flow through his flume, and, on its being partly turned away, went and removed the obstruction. He pleaded that the water to had always flowed in its present course since his occupancy of the place, and that he did not intentionally disobey any order of the court. Judge Cheney considered the mitigating circumstances, and imposed a fine of $15, or 15 days in jail. Mr. Emerson chose to go to jail.

Feliciano Cavrera was sentenced for burglary to San Quentin for one year and a half. JUDGE CHENEY'S COURT.
